SYNOPSIS

There's been green in every house I've lived in,' comments Micky Hoyle of the myriad shades of the colour splashed throughout the Cape Town home he shares with his girlfriend, Laurel Mader. From the otherworldly collection of sculptural succulents that greet visitors at the gate (and that are ever-present once inside) to the soothing planes of green paint colours juxtaposed with black, slate-grey and metallics it's clear that Micky is deeply inspired by the world outside his window.
